The structure I have is the following:
events.php $row['title'], 'start' => date('Y-m-d', strtotime($row['start'])), 'end' => date('Y-m-d', strtotime($row['end'])), 'location_id' => $row['location_id'], 'content' => $row['content']; } Then I create a calendar by calling fullcalendar('renderEventList') in my view.php with data retrived from events.php. Now, I want to add new components to the existing events, so I create a function that returns a new event from the data array retrieved from events.php. The problem is that the component created by this function isn't loaded. I also tried to do a refresh() after creating the component. event.php function addNewEvent($events) { $event = array(); $event['title'] = $
